

The Unified Framework of Diamagnetic Water Coherence in Life's Electromagnetic Æther Architecture

Framework Summary

This Unified Framework proposes that water's diamagnetic properties, when arranged in coherent field structures, give rise to the scaffolding of life, planetary formation, and consciousness. Electromagnetic resonance within toroidal fields, from the cellular biofield to the solar heliosphere, defines the spatial organization and energetic communication across scales. This model reframes gravity as a product of coherent fluidic motion in an electrically charged aether-like medium, governed by permittivity, field topology, and radiation dynamics.

A New Scientific Definition of Gravity

Gravity is not a force of mass attracting mass in warped space-time, but the emergent behavior of coherent electromagnetic field interactions within a fluidic, diamagnetic medium—primarily structured water—that shapes the pressure geometry of planetary bodies under radiation pressure and dielectric permittivity.
